Statesboro May Have Ball Club

C. B. McAllister, president of the Statesboro Pilots baseball team, announced this week that "at a meeting of the stockholders of the Statesboro Baseball Association held Tuesday night of last week in the courthouse, it was decided to enter the Georgia State Baseball League, provided a sufficient number of season tickets can be sold to insure financial success of the team for the 1952 season."

Mr. McAllister stated that a committee was named to call on baseball fans in this section to give them an opportunity of purchasing season tickets. This committee will report to the association at a meeting scheduled for Tuesday night, December 11, at 7:30 in the courthouse.

Mr. McAllister added that the public is invited to this meeting. Stockholders and fans who attended the meeting last Tuesday night were enthusiastic over the prospects of Statesboro entering a team in the Georgia State League.

More than 45 season tickets were sold at the meeting.

Mr. McAllister went on to say that if enough season tickets are sold by next Tuesday night the Pilots will be playing in a new league next year. The Georgia State League is a class D professional league and is a step up from the old Ogeechee League of which Statesboro was a former member.

Hi-Y Youths Take Over Legislature

Announcement was made this week that Kemp Mahay, Southeastern District secretary of YMCA, with headquarters in Statesboro, that four Statesboro youth have been selected to represent two Bulloch county schools at the Seventh Georgia Hi-Y Youth Assembly at the state capitol in Atlanta on December 7 and 8.

Harvill Hendricks of the Statesboro Hi-Y, will "serve" in the House of Representatives, and Bevin Young of Statesboro High School, will "serve" in the Senate.

Mrs. Lonnie Young and Miss Dorothy Mahoney will accompany these young delegates to Atlanta.

These young people will go to Atlanta to join other Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y boys and girls to take over the functions of the legislature for the week end, presenting and debating bills which they have prepared themselves.

Two years ago the "pint-size assembly" passed a bill requiring pre-marital health examinations. This measure has since been enacted into law by the regular Georgia legislature.

This youth and government project is conducted by the YMCA to give youth actual experience in good government and lawmaking. Twenty-six other states have similar Hi-Y legislatures.

Present plans call for televising part of the proceedings.

Another Hi-Y conference will be held at Statesboro High School for new clubs in Bulloch and surrounding counties on Saturday, December 15. This will be a training conference for the new clubs and will include Port, Register, Graymont-Summit, Metter, Swainsboro and Laboratory High School.

Arrangements were in charge of Smith-Tullman Mortuary.

Don Furness will be presented in a marimba solo, "Carnival of Venice," by John Heisey, bandmaster at DeLand, Fla., High School, and Miss Georgia Harper of Savannah will offer a group of violin solos as guest soloist.

Besides these numbers, the band will present several marches by Sousa and Fillmore and a Strauss waltz, along with a special arrangement of "Jingle Bells."

Those who love good music are invited to take advantage of this opportunity to hear one of Georgia's outstanding young musical organizations.

Got Any Old Toys?

Here we go again!

The Statesboro High School Industrial Arts Class, Don Coleman, and the Bulloch Herald will again accept old beat-up, bent-up, broken-down toys, dolls and playthings, to be reconditioned, repaired, painted, and made to look like new—for distribution to the underprivileged children of Statesboro and Bulloch county.

For the past several years, Mr. Coleman's industrial arts class at the high school and the Herald have cooperated in this project. It has proven highly successful and has meant "Santa Claus" to many kinds that Santa might have passed up otherwise.

We are asking that you go through your child's toy box, his closets, the back porch, the garage, and gather up all his discarded toys. Students in the industrial arts class will put them in wonderful condition.

You may leave the toys at the high school building. Help bring joy into the lives of those to whom a little joy means so much. Don't put it off! Do it now!

Will It Be A Red-Letter Day?

DECEMBER 22 will reveal if December 21 is to be a red-letter day or a black Friday to the school children of Bulloch County.

On Friday, December 21, the voters of Bulloch County will go to the polls to determine the future of the schools of their county. A future wrapped up in the county's "yes" or "no" to an $800,000 school bond issue.

For nearly a year approximately 100 people from all sections of Bulloch County, making up a citizens committee, investigated and studied the white schools of the county. Another committee made up of Negro citizens investigated and studied the Negro schools of the county.

These committees worried over their findings for a long time and finally arrived at a program designed to assure the future of the schools of this county.

Uppermost in the minds of all these citizens was the welfare, the happiness, the future of the young people of all the communities making up Bulloch County. Experts came in and reviewed the work done by these committees. They approved what they had done. Certain recommendations were made upon the findings of the committees.

And now, to carry out their recommendations, it is necessary that money be made available.

The recommendations call for a new high school for Brooklet, Stilston and Nevils, to be located near the center of the greatest population density in that area.

The recommendations call for rebuilding the classrooms at Nevils which will be vacated with the completion of the new high school for Brooklet, Stilston and Nevils.

The recommendations call for extending the Register elementary school to provide adequate cafeteria, rest rooms, and office space, and the installation of a central heating plant for the elementary school plant.

The recommendations call for more space for the Statesboro schools. The original portions of the present Statesboro High School should be renovated in keeping with recent additions to the school building. The gym floor is in need of immediate attention. The laboratories and shops in the high schools need extensive remodeling.

The recommendations call for either the abandoning of the Statesboro elementary school building or its complete remodeling, in addition to a new elementary school, located in another section of the city.

Inspection of the school buildings in the county indicate that all need extensive repairs.

The condition of the Negro schools is common knowledge. Much work has been done here in Statesboro on the William James High School. But to provide the Negro youth with the schools they need and deserve will mean a lot of money. They have been patient and have gone along making the best they could with what they have. We have recognized their need and we must make good our intentions to provide them with adequate school facilities.

There is a time element which must be considered. Georgia school officials are now rushing to get steel and other materials for new schools. On Saturday of last week twenty-eight applications for steel for construction of new schools or additions to schools had been filed by fourteen Georgia counties.

If we are to provide our children with the schools they deserve we must not let time run out on us and find ourselves willing, wanting, and ready—but unable to secure the materials with which to build.

The bond issue to be voted on December 21 consists of thirty bonds totalling $800,000, the first maturing in 1953, the last maturing in 1982. The interest rate on the first fifteen bonds is to be two and one-half percent, and on the other fifteen it will be two and three-fourths percent. The interest for thirty years on the $800,000 would amount to $378,810, making a total of $1,178,810, principal and interest to retire the bonds.

If the bond issue is given the approval of the citizens of our communities on December 21 it means that the county can go forward with its program to provide equal educational opportunities for all the children of all the people in our county.

It means that the titles of the new buildings and school sites would remain in the name of the County Board of Education. It would mean that the board would use the $44,000 per year to which it is entitled under the Minimum Foundation Program for Education for capital outlay (based on $200 per teacher per year) to pay the average annual principal and interest payment of $39,293.66.

If the bond issue should be rejected by citizens of the county then the County Board of Education could resort to the School Building Authority for funds with which to provide our youth the school facilities they need.

This would mean that the titles of all the new buildings and sites would be in the name of the School Building Authority instead of the County Board of Education. This would transfer county ownership of our schools to the state.

This would mean that the interest rate on the $800,000 would be four percent, to total $560,920 for the thirty years, making a total of $1,360,920, principal and interest requirements to pay on the loan.

It would mean that the $44,000 to which the county is entitled under the MFP would be inadequate to pay the annual average principal and interest payment of $45,364.

Simple arithmetic would prove that a bond issue such as we will vote on on December 21 will save us $182,110.

Sectional opposition to the bond issue is expected. It is understandable that citizens should oppose it in the sections of the county from which population has shifted and the average daily attendance has declined to the point that it is not economically feasible to maintain a school in that section.

But we hope that all the citizens of the county will approve the bond issue.

We feel that we must approve it. It's as much an investment in the future of every businessman, every farmer, every housewife, every businesswoman, as it is an investment in all the children of all the people of our many communities.

Don't let the spectre of death and the shadow of tragedy mar your Christmas and New Year holidays.

Lost in a Dream

I dream of moonlight on the bay... And of a lipping sea... And realize that our love... Is now a memory... I think of how the stars shone bright... "When I first saw you, Dear"... And how I offered you "My Life"... And entered in my prayer... A wish that you would always be... The dearest to my heart... Declaring how the clouds turned grey... When we must be apart... But into each and every life... Some sadness will appear... And grasp, and gnaw, and battle with... Those things we all hold dear... And I have lost my fight with fate... And I must surely die... But I will never run away... And I will never cry... Now I must gather hopes anew... And dream of things to be... As I view moonlight on the bay... And hear a lipping sea.

LEHMAN FRANKLIN admits that he's all for "de-emphasizing football"—that is, de-emphasizing football at Georgia Tech. The Minkovitz admits that he has all interest in the game before half-time—that is, the football game between Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia in Atlanta last Saturday.

R. J. Kennedy Jr. admits that the game was a "dilly."

BILL BOWEN had fun Monday at Rotary. He "sassed" an army general, realizing an ambition which grew out of his first days in the army as a buck private. He didn't even bother to "sirr" as strong, commanding general of the Third Army AAA Training Center, Camp Stewart, fellow Rotarian.

SOME of those college kids are going to get it knocked off if they don't quit standing on the edge of traffic across from the post office on South Main seeking rides out to the college.

AND THE Bulloch Herald's and Donald Coleman's Industrial Arts class is now taking in old toys to be repaired by members of Don's class for distribution to the county's underprivileged. Check up and clean out your closets of last year's toys, now beat-up, bent-up, and broken-down. They're just what we're wanting. They can be put in where to make some young-un happy. Bring them to our office at 27 West Main Street and we'll get them to Don, or you can take them directly to the school-house and give them to Don. Do it today, so the boys can get to work on repairing, painting, and fixing them up.

HAVE YOU gotten up your old clothes for the Junior Chamber of Commerce's "Empty Stocking Fund"? If not, do it today. Get 'em up and give 'em to Charlie Robbins or Donald McGould.

AND AGAIN the Tillmans make news. Shirley Tillman was selected "Miss Senior Class of 1952" at Wesleyan College. Her mother, Mrs. Grant Tillman, spent the week end with Shirley in Atlanta where both attended the football game at Grant's Field. Speaking for Shirley, I know she was not disappointed in the results, for her friend, Vaughn Dyer, is at Tech.

WE WERE amused at this bit of news from Atlanta. Betty Ann Sherman, junior at the University of Georgia, this year, spent Thanksgiving holidays with her sister, Margaret, and Arnold Almand. On Sunday morning at church Margaret was soloist in the anthem. Betty Ann stood outside with Arnold and his mother waiting for Margaret to come from the choir loft. Many members of the congregation stopped and told Betty Ann how beautifully she sang. Betty smilingly acknowledged the compliments with a demure "Thank you." It's our guess that Betty teased Margaret plenty afterwards.

ANN DEVANE WALL, daughter of my next door neighbors, the S. M. Walls, came up with this: Addressing her parents, she asked, "When I was a barefoot girl and when I was married yet?" When told that she had not, but would be married soon, she asked, "Why did they advertise it so?" She said she saw the lovely picture of Patty, whom she admires very much, in the paper and having heard her father talk about advertising in the papers, she reached the conclusion that Lizzie Scott's eyes opened wide and she said, "Darling, I've thought about you all these years." And Lizzie Scott and I had a lot of catching up to do since the time when I was a barefoot girl and when I was married yet.

There are certain times when a woman should be entirely alone. One of them is when a line of clothes comes loose and flops in to the mud.

Marriage vows for movie stars and some other "artists" should be changed to read: "Do you take this man (or woman) for your lawfully wedded spouse, for better or worse, but not for good?"

There will not be a farm soil-building allowance as in the past, Mr. Cason explained. The entire PMA practices program will be based on the applications submitted by the county.

H. P. Womack, county school superintendent, and Everett Williams, chairman of the county board of education, discussed the proposed school bond issue which comes up for a vote December 21.

A bond issue for some $800,000 can be made under present conditions and fully repaid from funds coming to the county under the new system of school financing without having to add any levy to the county's tax base.

County Board can save some $182,000 in the 30 years the issue would be made through the use of bonds instead of borrowing this amount now from the state.

It was pointed out that this amount was now needed in the report made last summer. They urged those present to think over this problem with the county board but stated that so far the county board had found that the bond issue was

Are We Parents At Fault for Child's Lack of Gratitude?

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

AT FIRST, I feared that I had become a pessimist, unbeknown to myself. But a chance remark here and there caused me to believe that there are other pessimists among parents.

Our depression is caused by our children's seeming lack of gratitude, their acceptance of all the good things of life as their just deserts, without feeling any responsibility for showing appreciation. All this is enough to put parents in a sad mood.

Is, we asked ourselves, is this something that has sneaked up on us in the night? Or is it something that has happened to just a few of us and our children. And, if this ingratitude is a true state, whose fault is it?

There have been numerous little incidents here and there which have brought about this thoughtfulness on our parts. The youngest member of our household has just had a birthday. A few days prior to the day she was seen with her arms around her daddy's neck and whispering something in his ear. Later I was secretly disclosed to me that she had wished for either a ring or a bracelet for her birthday. I should have known then that her wish would be gratified because her daddy is putty in her hands (as all men seem to be in their daughters' hands).

The birthday arrived and the family sat around the birthday cake as she received two or three little gifts. Then her daddy handed her his gift. She took it and said, "Guess this is my bracelet." In an almost arrogant manner, I looked at her daddy and he looked at me, and all the joy of it seemed drained out of both of us. Later I tried to explain to her, even though she is just five, that we should never expect gifts, but we get them, we should be so very thankful for them. I also explained that daddy likes to be thanked for a gift. A few minutes later she was in the living room, in her daddy's lap, and hugging his neck. She really was appreciative deep down, but on the surface no one would ever have known it. And had it not been brought to her mind, it is doubtful that she would have realized it.

Different friends and I have discussed this subject on several occasions. We have tried to analyze the reasons for such an attitude on the part of our children. One reason, one mother felt, is that we all are guilty of giving our children too much. They have so much that nothing comes with the thrill of surprise. We buy them this and that, and they not only accept it but expect it. Another mother thought that the lack of responsibility added to this general state, that is, children who have few tasks to perform, or no tasks at all, can have little responsibility concerning duty or gratitude. The less they have to do the more they object to doing anything.

Has such a philosophy been unconsciously absorbed from parents who cater too much to the whims and desires of their children? For instance, consider the practice of giving children allowances. Will the children go through life expecting allowances? Wouldn't it be better to give children a daily job, however small, and say that they will receive a small payment for doing the job rather than to fork out free change every week?

One goes "round and round" when she tries to figure things out. She even gets around to the feeling that maybe a good deal of time depression would be just the thing to cause our children to stop and realize the blessings that are theirs, and that they need to be saying, "Thank you" to God, parents, and friends all the time for their homes, their school, and their community.

And one more round? Could it be that once our parents felt the same concern over our apparent ingratitude? Perhaps we, too, accepted our blessings just as our children do. And, who knows, maybe we as parents could express a thankfulness which would be contagious.

Bulloch Farm Bureaus Hear Details Of School Bond Issue for the County

Edwin Banks will again head the West Side Farm Bureau for 1952, along with the safe officers who worked with him in 1951. Joe Olliff Akins is vice president and Lottier Akins is secretary and treasurer.

In keeping with the recent changes in the Associated Women organization, the 1952 PMA president, was named as 1952 chairman.

Doris Cason, PMA administrative officer, stated that the 1952 PMA soil-building practices would be set up on a per farm basis at the prescribed rate of pay according to the request of the individual farmer. Forms carrying these practices would be mailed to individual farmers having work sheets in the PMA office with the request that they be returned by February 1, 1952.

There will not be a farm soil-building allowance as in the past, Mr. Cason explained. The entire PMA practices program will be based on the applications submitted by the county.

STILSON GROUP HEARS BOND ISSUE DISCUSSION

County School Superintendent H. P. Womack discussed the proposed bond issue at the Stilston Farm Bureau meeting Wednesday night, and C. M. Cowart discussed the same at Port on Thursday night.

C. B. McAllister, executive vice president of the Sea Island Bank, outlined for the Stilston group the advantages of living as an American in a democracy over conditions under communism behind the Iron Curtain. It seems that Americans cannot appreciate the freedom they enjoy until it is taken away, Mr. McAllister stated.

At the meeting of the Rotary members heard County PMA Chairman M. L. Taylor, chairman of the county PMA Committee, urged the Port group to return their forms when received relative to the 1952 PMA program so that the county committee could tell them shortly just how much money would be set aside for the individual farm.

WMU Studies Latin America

The W.M.U. of the First Baptist Church observed Mission Study Day November 27 at the church annex from 10 a. m. until 3 p. m. The study was "A Pilgrimage to Latin America."

Mrs. J. G. Attaway, chairman of decorations, was successful in providing an aura of the spirit of South American Indians in the use of gay Latin banners unfurled around exotic fruit and foliage arrangements. Picturesque posters were placed around the room depicting cities and faces. In a corner a quaint little burro with long ears carried the group for the good neighbor messages.

Mrs. Gerald Groover was the luncheon chairman. The menu was Mexican and the menu a la Espanol from the tangy meat dish to the avocado-garnished salad arranged closely to the good neighbor theme.

Mrs. Ralph Moore decorated the study room with the same attractive details that prevailed throughout the meeting. Posters were the work of Mrs. M. O. Lawrence.

Mrs. T. E. Serson, with serious, sometimes humorous comments, portrayed the mind and spiritual needs of the Spanish American Indian as interpreted by missionaries. Mrs. Wallace Cobb's talk brought out the more turbulent aspects of Spanish history as related to the Latin countries.

Mrs. J. L. Zetterlow's collection of Mexican pottery and other arts peculiar to that country added interest to the study.

Mrs. Fred Fletcher completed the study in her description of the tropical terrain.

The group left the meeting reluctantly, bidding each other "Adios."
